COMPANY PRESS RELEASE

Jennifer Lopez, Coty Inc., Sweetface Fashion Company, LLC and Glow Industries, Inc. Settle Litigation

New York, October 22, 2003 —Jennifer Lopez, Coty Inc. and Sweetface Fashion Company, LLC and Glow Industries, Inc. announced today that they have settled the trademark infringement suit brought by Glow Industries in Federal Court in California. Pursuant to a settlement agreement, all parties have agreed to dismiss the pending claims and counter-claims in the litigation.

"I am glad that we have reached a mutually satisfactory conclusion to this matter. We are pleased that we were able to work constructively with Glow Industries to come to a resolution," said Michele Scannavini, President, Lancaster Group Worldwide. Mr. Scannavini also commended Terri Williamson, president and co-founder of Glow Industries, for developing her well-received GLOW line of bath, body care and fragrance products.

"I am pleased that the litigation has been resolved and that all parties can now focus on the future," said Ms. Williamson.

Under the agreement, Glow Industries will continue to use the GLOW mark on its bath, body care and fragrance products during a limited transition period. Ms. Lopez will also continue to own and use the GLOW BY J.LO mark for her fragrance and related products. The other terms of the settlement agreement were not disclosed.
